Considerations Regarding Social Media Best Practices

Be Authentic

Represent your status at UNLV accurately. Accordingly, be truthful and precise about your role at UNLV. Unless you actually have been authorized to do so, make clear that you are not representing the university. Use disclaimers on social media sites, such as

Be Accurate

Make every reasonable effort to ensure that the claims you make are accurate and can be substantiated. When possible, link to original sources. Try to avoid comments that might be misleading, or misinterpreted.

Be Respectful

Consider carefully the tone of your message. Style is as important as content because your audience is unlikely to respect a message that it considers badly or inappropriately communicated. This does not mean that you must sacrifice passion and intensity. Nor

Be Safe

Recognize that for-profit social media platform companies do not represent your interests. These companies may use/share personally identifiable information about you with neither your knowledge or permission. When using digital media, do so with the presumption that you may be contributing to a permanent and possibly public record. Do not assume that your identity will be protected.
