

Sections Used in the Tenure and/or Promotion Application Vita for Academic Faculty - Libraries

---

The Tenure and/or Promotion application vita for Libraries is just one of the components you will include as part of your Tenure and/or Promotion application. Below is a list of sections that are used to populate the Tenure and/or Promotion Application for Academic Faculty - Libraries vita in UNLV Folio.

---

expertise that has been solicited and used to contribute to the advancement of professional and personal programs and events (e.g., conferences, student organizations, scholarly publications, or an individual's professional development). Examples include, but are not limited to, serving as an editor/reviewer, guest speaker, student advisor, conference organizer, judge, program coordinator, or mentoring faculty, undergraduate and graduate students, and post docs.

OTHER: Consulting

This section displays contractual agreements for specialized services. Examples: Loaned expertise as a statistical analyst; Discipline expert on policy development for the U.S. Department of Agriculture; Government contractor at Nellis Air Force Base.

OTHER: Clinical Activities

Describe your clinical services and research specialties. Examples include treatment, counseling services, and other medical services.

